MAILE'S WIN MEDALS AND PUNAHOU LOSE

Strong Wind Causes Difficulty in Control of Ball—After First Goal College Boys Lose Confidence.

The final match in the Junior Association football contest took place at Punahou yesterday afternoon before the senior match. Both teams were kept to win as the one which could prove its superiority would be champion for the season and its members would each be presented with a medal at the conclusion of the game.

The rival teams were the Punahou and Maile Illmas, the first named being the favorites. The game was played under very severe climatic conditions which rendered accurate play impossible and greatly marred combined effort. A strong wind was blowing and the ball was difficult to control in consequence. The Punahou kicked off for a long time the game was very even, no side showing much advantage.

The Mailes, contrary to expectation, held their own well and showed greatly superior play than on their last appearance. Just before half time the Mailes scored and the Punahou commenced after the interval with this disadvantage. The Mailes now worked together in great style getting on the ball with great snap and confidence, while the Punahou from this time appeared to lose their cohesion and, as the play of the Mailes improved, their steadily grew poorer. The Mailes added goal after goal to their score, and at the close of play registered four to their opponents' duck egg.

The Punahou evidently lost the match from over confidence and the Mailes thoroughly deserve their success as they have been practicing regularly for the Saturday's match. The winning team was awarded medals which were presented to them during the interval of the senior game. The following composed the winning team and received medals: Neville Osborne (capt.), P. Erickson, Zeigler, Nott, Bailey and Ludwigsen.

For the Punahou Herbert Dowsett and Elisha Andrews played a good game and Gilman did well at back. Referee, Curran Osborne. Linesmen, T. Osborne and Glichrist Hatch.

MANKICHI CASE TO SUPREME COURT

Important Constitutional Question in Hawaiian Lawsuit.

Does Hoisting Flag MAKE AMERICAN LAW Judge Kete's Opinion is Filed In San Francisco—Court of Appeals Takes All Steps Necessary.

San Francisco, March 14.—An important constitutional question will be heard in the Supreme Court of the United States, the last step necessary for that proceeding having been taken by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday, when the record in the habeas corpus case of Oskai Mankichi was certified to the Supreme Court.

Mankichi, between the time of the raising of the American flag over the Hawaiian Islands and the formal annexation of that territory by Congressional enactment, was convicted in Honolulu by nine of twelve jurors of manslaughter of the first degree, and on May 22, 1899, was sentenced to twenty years' imprisonment at hard labor, all the proceedings having been had under the old Hawaiian laws. Mankichi applied for a writ of habeas corpus on the ground that his conviction was had contrary to the provisions of the constitution of the United States, which he contended became the law of the land as soon as the American flag had been hoisted. United States District Judge Estee granted the writ and ordered Mankichi released from custody. The counsel for the Government immediately appealed to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals of the Ninth Circuit and to the United States Supreme Court. Judge Estee in his opinion filed yesterday says:

There is great divergence of opinion on the part of the members of the Supreme Court of the territory as to whether or not the people of this territory were, during the period between July 7, 1898, and June 14, 1900, living in an American territory and subject to such laws as were not inconsistent with the joint resolution of Congress, nor contrary to the constitution of the United States. . . . The decisions of the local territorial courts upon this question are an attack upon the constitutional rights of the citizen, affecting life and liberty, which are thereby made insecure.

The Cosmopolitan. No attempt has ever been made to get together any congress representing the highest intelligence of the various nations of the world. The nearest approach to this was the Peace Conference at The Hague. The failure of that body was caused by the fact that it was selected to represent political and personal interests. It will be interesting to note the results which must come from the first World's Congress in which all nations shall be represented by men of the highest integrity and intellectual calibre. The difficulty in effecting such a gathering are almost insurmountable, but the Cosmopolitan Magazine is making the effort with a full recognition of the endless obstacles to overcome. In the March number, The Cosmopolitan's plan is briefly outlined. Its agents in Europe and elsewhere are carefully maturing lists of the ablest men of each country considered with reference—First, To their sincerity. Second, Their earnestness. Third, Clear thinking that is, ability to see the truth. Fourth, Broad experience in affairs.

These names are five times as great in number as the candidates to be eventually selected. Upon these the opinion of leading men in other countries will be secured, so that the final selection will represent a consensus of opinion by the leading men of the world of thought. The Cosmopolitan is also endeavoring to secure by contribution a fund of a quarter of a million dollars to provide for the expenses of the first World's Congress.

The Perils of Greatness. Russia is scarcely a good country to be famous in. Besides Tolstoi there is another eminent writer who has fallen under the Government's displeasure and has reason to know it. This is Maxim Gorky, like the Count, a novelist and also a dramatist, with an objectionable tendency to search the barbarous survivals of Russian life "for secrets better hid." His movements are subjected to so much scrutiny that he has had to obtain Government authorization to winter in Crimea. It is granted on condition that he goes nowhere near Yalta. At Moscow, through which city his route lay to the south, some hundreds of people not having the official properties before their eyes, had organized a little platform reception and demonstration of sympathy. But they know how to manage these things in the Russian prefectures. The demonstrators were allowed to organize their little party, and to assemble on the platform in gleeful anticipation. But the express was pulled up just outside

FOR PUBLIC HEALTH

MERCHANTS MEET AND HEAR GOOD REPORT

Sanitary Conditions Better Now Than For a Long Time Past—Co-Operation of Organizations—A Suggestion.

At a meeting of the Merchants' Association yesterday afternoon the special committee appointed to work in conjunction with the Board of Health and the Chamber of Commerce in the matter of taking action concerning health conditions in the city, reported much progress and advancement in work along special lines. The report of the committee was considered very favorable and the committee was recommended to pursue the work in hand.

The Board of Health, the Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants' Association are co-operating in all matters which pertain to the sanitary improvement and health safeguarding of Honolulu. The special committee reported that conditions have changed very much for the better of late and that Honolulu is now in a better sanitary condition than it has been for a long time, although there is still vast room for improvement and much of importance still remains to be done along radical lines.

It was suggested at the meeting that a portion of the fifteen cents per ton exaction now imposed on importers for the purpose of reimbursing those firms which put up the money to build the quarantine wharf, should be set aside to assist the Board of Health in its important work of safeguarding the public health. Nothing definite was decided in this matter.

The city, Gorky was ordered out, transferred to the guard's van of a goods train, under strict orders not to show himself, and in this way was whisked through Moscow under the very eyes of his friends, without their ever suspecting his presence.

The last book of his stories is announced under the title Twenty-six and One. This volume will contain a preface by Ivan Stranik, giving a brief account of Gorky, and will be followed by three examples of his best work—Twenty-six and One, Malva, Tchekachke.

Laird & Lee's Latest. Fogg's Ferry, a novel by C. E. Calhoun, from his drama. Laird & Lee, publishers, Chicago.

It feels like being gladdened by the unexpected visit of an old friend, to see in print, in the shape of a novel, the characters and scenes which we enjoyed so much on the stage in the recent past. There is dear old Fogg with his golden heart and his weakness; Mrs. Fogg, his stronger half, ill-tempered and vulgar, there is Chip, the sweet wild-flower, in all her sylvan freshness and vigor. There are her lovers three, the black villain, the white Gerald—excuse the pun—and William the Silent, not of the House of Orange, but—still. Yes, that old ferry-boat and its rough owner are not forgotten very easily, somehow, and all who saw the play will be glad to be able to review the sweet story once more at their leisure; while those who were not so fortunate, will be charmed by its original traits and truthfulness to life. 331 pages, illustrated.

(Paper cover, handsomely lithographed in five colors, 25c. Cloth edition, with inlaid cover, aluminum stamped, 75c.)

The most inclusive and most keenly analytical sketches of public men which have been prepared during the past two years have been those of William Allen White. The humorous little episode between Mr. White and Thomas C. Platt is still fresh in the public memory. Mr. White's sketch for March appears in the Cosmopolitan and is on the late President Harrison. It will be read with wide interest by both the opponents and friends of that statesman.

The Ordeal of Elizabeth has run through successive editions, and promises to be one of the most successful books of the year. There is a strong theme signified by the title. The Ordeal, which supplements the interest of a charming love story. It is a romance pure and simple. The heroine is a genuine, lovable American girl.

It is to be regretted that May Sinclair, the brilliant author of Two Sides of a Question, is not strong enough to devote all her time to literature. Her new story will be waited for with much interest by her admirers both in America and England.

The author of The Honor of the Braxtons has an international reputation as the founder of an art—that of fire etching, called in old times poker work, but raised by Mr. Fosdick to the dignity of etching of a superior order. Several years ago Mr. Fosdick was introduced to the wife of a President of the United States with the remark: "Of course you have heard of his work?" The artist was dismayed to hear the wife of the Chief Executive exclaim: "O yes, indeed! We have all heard of Poker Fosdick!"
